Best Practice

It is recommended that Verification of Competency (VOC) assessments for High-Risk Work Licences (HRLW) be carried out every 12 to 24 months. Although HRLWs are generally valid for five years, more frequent VOC assessments or refresher training may be advised or required to maintain ongoing competency and compliance with safety standards.

Industry standards and workplace policies may require more frequent VOC assessments or refresher training to ensure workers maintain competency in their roles. This also helps keep workers informed about the latest safety procedures, equipment usage, and regulatory updates.
